

If you have ever ridden a bus when people are talking on cell phones, you'll know that allowing cell phone use on aircraft could create a highly disruptive environment in which people would become irritated and angry, testing the limits of patience, not the calm and courteous environment we currently have. On a bus you can get off, on a plane you can't. Please do not allow use of cellular phones on aircraft.